History

On 15 May 1904 Henry Wood Booth, father of George Gough Booth, pitched a tent on the bluff overlooking Cranbrook and Lone Pine Roads and preached a Sunday sermon for his fifteen neighbors. The property was a small corner of the 175 acres that George Booth purchased in January 1904, and on which he built his country home in 1908.

Henry Booth continued to conduct his Sunday services in the tent, on the porch of Cranbrook Cottage, and in the Studio of his son's home until 1918. In 1918 George Booth built the Meeting House, now Brookside School, and on the first Sunday in January 1919 Henry Booth conducted religious services for "the people of the community who do not regularly go to church."

The simple missionary services continued, but in 1923 George Booth, sensing the need for an orthodox church in the Bloomfield Hills community, wrote to his friend Reverend Samuel S. Marquis, former Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral in Detroit, his ideas concerning the establishment of an Episcopal church on the Cranbrook property. In his letter George Booth offered to finance the building of the church and to contribute funds to sustain it.

By early 1924 the plans for Christ Church Cranbrook accelerated. The Bishop's agreement was obtained and the southwest corner of Cranbrook Road and Lone Pine Road was selected as the site. The architectural firm of Bertram Grosvenor Goodhue Associates was commissioned, and Oscar H. Murray chief designer and architect, with George Gough Booth, agreed upon a design with a total estimated cost of $550,000.

The construction contract was awarded to Charles R. Wermuth and Sons. Ground breaking took place 5 Jul 1925 and to commemorate the day Reverend Samuel Marquis conducted the first service for the Christ Church Cranbrook Mission at the Meeting House. (Henry Wood Booth, the creator of the tent church, had died 17 Mar 1925).

On 21 Jun 1926, as all the foundations neared completion, the laying of the cornerstone was conducted, and the consecration of Christ Church Cranbrook (29 Sep 1928) by Bishop Herman Page was followed on 30 Sep 1928 by the dedication of the Carillon. The Carillon consisted of 46 bells cast by the Taylor Bell Foundry, Loughborough, England and given to Christ Church Cranbrook by Harold L. Wallace, his wife Grace Booth Wallace and their five children.

As construction of the church continued, George Booth and his family consulted with artisans who provided carved woodwork, stained glass windows, appropriate paintings and sculpture, tapestries and metalwork. From the early tent services of Henry Wood Booth in 1904 Christ Church Cranbrook has firmly established itself on the corner of Lone Pine and Cranbrook Roads.

Scope and Content of Collection

The Christ Church Cranbrook Papers are divided into the following series: THE BOOTH FAMILY AND CHRIST CHURCH CRANBROOK; THE ADMINISTRATION OF CHRIST CHURCH CRANBROOK; PUBLICATIONS; and PHOTOGRAPHS. Each series is divided into subseries based on specific content. All arrangements are alphanumeric.

THE BOOTH FAMILY AND CHRIST CHURCH CRANBROOK series delineates the Booth family's religious history and the philosophy that led to the establishment of the Meeting House and to the eventual organization and development of Christ Church Cranbrook. Legal papers concerning the early financial structure; the acquisition of property; the Cranbrook Foundation's organization, dissolution and restructure are also contained in this series, as are papers relating to the construction, alteration, maintenance, grounds and purchase of art objects are included. This series is divided into three subseries: HISTORY; FINANCIAL ORGANIZATION; and BUILDING AND FURNISHINGS.

THE ADMINISTRATION OF CHRIST CHURCH CRANBROOK series is concerned with the various aspects of the administration of the church-- personnel, ceremonies, sermons, missions and finances. Papers relating to these concerns and a collection of financial reports comprise this series, which is divided into five subseries: PERSONNEL; CHURCH ACTIVITIES AND FUNCTIONS; MISSIONS; SOCIAL ISSUES; and ANNUAL REPORTS.

The PUBLICATIONS series contains the many publications of Christ Church Cranbrook. The weekly publications-- The Carillon (1928-1967); Newsletter, Calendar and Soundings (1968-1972); and Communicator (1972-1983) are included. In addition, some national publications containing articles and photographs of Christ Church Cranbrook are in this series, which is divided into two subseries: CHIRST CHURCH CRANBROOK PUBLICATIONS and NATIONAL PUBLICATIONS.

The PHOTOGRAPHS series contains photographs of the church, its staff and congregation, and congregational activities.
