

CRANBROOK
DONOR HONOR ROLL

CRANBROOK

On behalf of the Board of Trustees of Cranbrook Educational Community and all of the learners and visitors who enjoy our campus and our programs on it, in our region, and throughout the nation, I want to say thank you to the thousands of individuals and organizations listed in this 2014-2015 Cranbrook Donor Honor Roll and the many more who have volunteered their time, talent, and gifts to support this exceptional institution.

Over the summer of 2015, craftsmen constructed two stone walls along Lone Pine Road in the vicinity of the new exit from the Cranbrook House parking lot. These walls join the old ones that frame the newly-restored Yellin Gates which were installed and dedicated in November.

Walls are a significant part of the historic hardscape around Cranbrook. Within the campuses of the Schools or the Academy of Art, they offer places to sit in the sunshine, catching up with friends or enjoying a book. Around the perimeter of Cranbrook, walls serve to embrace the space.

With every wall, there is a door or a gate or an opening that breaks the barrier and invites those outside in and encourages those in to go out. Inviting others in, and encouraging outward bound service, outreach and learning, are crucial to what we do at Cranbrook.

As I wrote in my Honor Roll introduction last year, Cranbrook was founded upon a spirit of giving to others. Mindful of that legacy, we strive to share Cranbrook's educational and cultural opportunities with many and diverse audiences.

Your contributions inspire us and impel us to offer opportunities in education, art, and science on and off our historic 319-acre campus like no other organization in the country. We're also working hard to develop extraordinary new, imaginative, and far-reaching experiences for learners of all kinds.

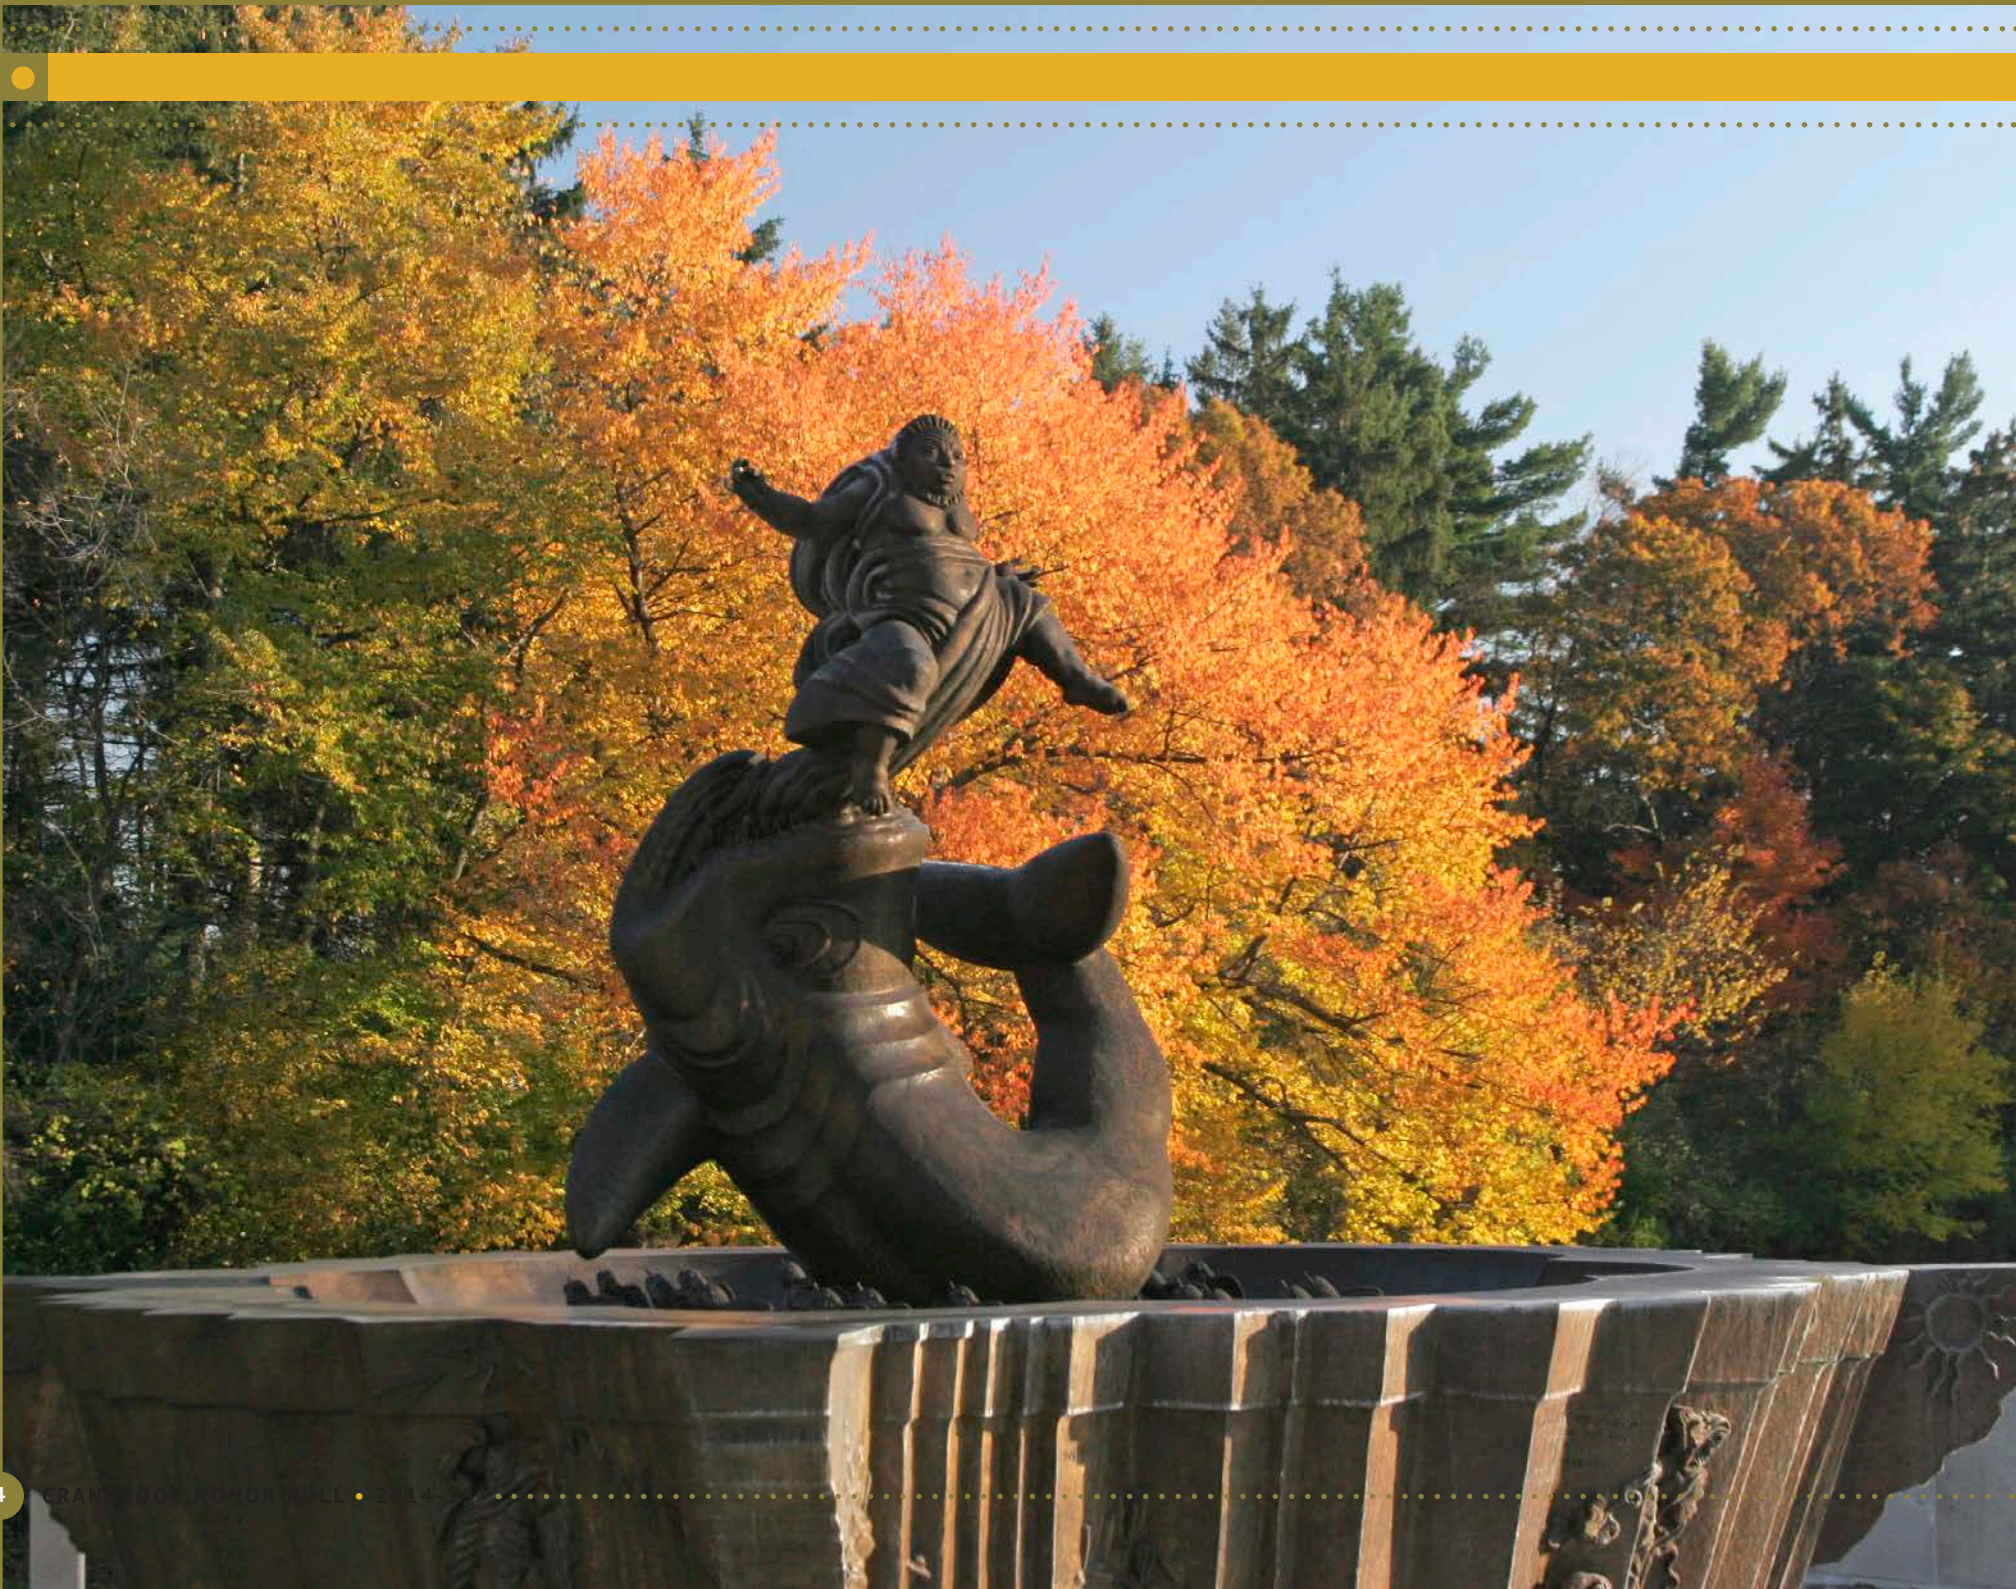

We need to continue to build new audiences both on our campus and outside it. In doing so, we are sustaining the commitment of our founders, George Gough Booth and Ellen Scripps Booth, who believed that unselfish service to others not only provides the giver with health and happiness but also makes for happy and healthy communities, states, and nations as well.

Thank you for all you do to make this happen.

Bruce D. Peterson
Chairman
Board of Trustees

Dear Friends,

To those listed on the following pages, and to the many others unnamed, on behalf of everyone associated with Cranbrook Educational Community, I extend our most profound thanks—for enhancing our capacity to provide opportunities for so many to experience the joys of learning, observing, imagining, creating, discovering, and above all, reaching for excellence. We all are deeply grateful for your continued support, encouragement, and friendship.

Cranbrook's Donor Honor Roll recognizes the individuals and organizations whose gifts to Cranbrook make it possible to share this extraordinary place with others. As you look through this publication, I encourage you to pause on the messages of the leaders in each of our program areas. In their words, you will discover how outreach is integral to what we do, how Cranbrook's service to others takes many forms, and how each donor to Cranbrook, through their gifts, has leveraged our capacity to serve others and thus enrich ourselves.

I've had several moments over the last month that caused me to think about Cranbrook's history and our collective service to others, both now and in the past. George Gough Booth, Cranbrook's founder along with his wife Ellen Scripps Booth, was many things. He was a metalsmith by trade, a newspaperman by profession, a collector by interest, an architect and landscape designer by hobby, and a philosopher by inclination. Cranbrook's Archives are filled with his writings, which are full of quotations that challenge and inspire the reader even today. I would argue, however, that in spite of all of the Booths' extraordinary accomplishments, serving others was a trait they held in the highest esteem.

I enjoy reading the historic literature related to Cranbrook and recently came across this quote from George Booth: "If you would serve self best, then serve others." As I read this passage, it struck me again that the Booths certainly lived up to that conviction in their own lives, and today's Cranbrook remains the living proof of that commitment.

I am delighted to tell you that each program area of Cranbrook is making an ongoing, meaningful difference in the lives of those around us. From the Horizons-Upward Bound Program at Cranbrook Schools to the Institute's statewide educational outreach to the Art Museum's focus on art and urban learners, all areas of Cranbrook serve others as a priority. Mindful of the Booths' service legacy, we share our educational experiences, programs and facilities with diverse audiences and work to create life-long relationships with all of our constituents.

Thank you, again, for your support and for helping Cranbrook serve those who need it most.

Dominic A. DiMarco
President

FOUNDER'S SOCIETY

CRANBROOK CUMULATIVE GIVING SOCIETIES

Cranbrook's Cumulative Giving Societies, including the Founder's Society which recognizes cumulative giving of more than $1 million, honors Cranbrook's founding families and the donors who are following in their footsteps with their generous support of this Community. The following pages provide insight and background into each giving level and also list those individuals who make up the 2014-15 class of the Founder's Society as well as the dozens of other supporters who have given to Cranbrook over the years.

BOOTH • $10,000,000

George Gough and Ellen Scripps Booth
Maxine and Stuart Frankel

George and Ellen Booth founded Cranbrook in 1904 and guided its growth into one of the world's leading centers for education, science and art. The idea for Cranbrook arose, in part, of their belief that beauty was essential to life and could inspire great thinking and creativity. That belief still inspires the Cranbrook vision today.

SCRIPPS • $7,500,000

Susan Flint Cooper K'58

Ellen Booth's family, the Scripps, were leaders in the newspaper publishing industry at the turn of the 20th century. The Scripps family was the foundation upon which many of Cranbrook's early successes were built.

SAARINEN • $5,000,000

*Henry Scripps and Carolyn Booth
Peter and Julie Fisher Cummings K'73
Frederick and Barbara Erb C'41
James and Virginia Beresford Fox
Rose M. Shuey*

Renowned Finnish architect Eliel Saarinen joined the Booths in the mid-1920s to help bring their dream of Cranbrook to fruition. With sweeping vision and an unparalleled eye for detail, Saarinen's design for Cranbrook and its buildings made it one of the world's most admired campuses.

I believe in an expansive approach to art and design. Artists and designers should engage contemporary cultural expression in a larger context within our educational institutions and our communities—demonstrating that art and design—indeed creativity of all kinds—have a broad vitality and relevance. We must support new art and new ideas, and encourage debate, exchange, and collaboration within and especially beyond the Cranbrook campus.

By the very nature of this philosophy of practice, Cranbrook Academy of Art and its creative partner, Cranbrook Art Museum, embrace the notion of outreach in what we do. Over the past year, nothing has exemplified outreach more than the Museum's project with 1989 Academy graduate, Nick Cave. Cave's solo exhibition at the Museum, Nick Cave: Here Hear, was punctuated by a series of free public performances throughout the city of Detroit attended by thousands. To realize these performances, the Museum collaborated with dozens of Detroit-based partners, many for the first time, to leverage their knowledge and resources within the city. The impact of the Nick Cave project has been extraordinary, and not just for Cranbrook. I believe it has truly changed the conversation about Detroit inside and outside the city.

The Academy and Museum regularly undertake other outreach activities in local communities and beyond. For example, for the past three years, Academy students have been involved both as volunteers and as part-time employees with Art Road Nonprofit, an organization that brings art classes to Detroit elementary schools which lack funding for art programs. Each year, one or more Academy students have taught for Art Road reaching hundreds of students on a weekly basis. By introducing students to famous artists from history and today, and giving them a creative outlet to learn and practice various artistic techniques, Academy students have helped Detroit children on a fundamental level, supplementing their academic curriculum with creative inspiration and endless opportunities for self-expression.

Similarly, the Art Museum's education program provides direct experiences with art objects in our collection to underserved youth from Detroit and Pontiac. We also work to provide art-making instruction at Cranbrook and within disadvantaged schools in our region. One such project, My School: A Total Work of Art, received a prestigious grant from the National Endowment for the Arts to work with students at the Alcott Elementary School in Pontiac in re-imagining and re-designing their school environment after touring Saarinen House and the Museum's Collections Wing. Through the Museum's school year programs and summer camps, including the Cranbrook Summer Art Institute for teens, thousands of students benefit each year from the Museum's outreach efforts.

Our ability to share the best of Cranbrook Academy of Art and Cranbrook Art Museum with others is due to the loyalty and generosity of the donors listed on the following pages. We are particularly grateful this year for our corporate and foundation partners who share our vision that promoting art and design projects in Detroit and other urban areas will revitalize our cities and our region more quickly and sustainably.

To all of the generous donors to Cranbrook Academy of Art and Cranbrook Art Museum, I extend a heartfelt thank you.

Dear Friends,

What should a museum be in this day and age? A place your family visits, presses their noses to the glass, and then moves on to a busy day? Or, perhaps, a museum could be a place where you encounter issues of the day, experience them as a family then, once you leave, stay connected to that special place via digital links, lectures, special programs, summer camps, and more. As Director, I am especially pleased that we can offer this second scenario to so many visitors, some of whom might never have had an opportunity to experience a place like Cranbrook Institute of Science.

Service to others is in the DNA at the Institute. In fact, we describe much of our outreach programming as “service packages,” and we are pleased to offer our science experiences to public schools in Detroit, Flint, Southfield, Pontiac, and to the audiences of some of our very special friends.

Thanks to ongoing support from some true corporate and foundation leaders in our region, the Institute of Science serves hundreds of students from Detroit Public Schools, including their families and teachers. Our educators work in DPS classrooms and provide professional development training for teachers, family outreach programs, and more. Students enjoy field trips to the Institute of Science, and DPS families are offered free admission and transportation to the Institute for all of our many Detroit Family Days. Through our outreach in Detroit and other Michigan cities, students experience programs that support their mastery of core STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) concepts. We are, in essence, taking Cranbrook’s tradition of excellence in science into the communities that need it most.

But some of the Institute’s most special guests come from all over southeastern Michigan—in fact, from nearly every community you can think of. Through the Cranbrook Cares Pediatric Cancer Initiative, the Institute offers children in treatment for cancer and their families an opportunity to forget about cancer and enjoy a day in a setting tailored just for them. During two family days and three days of summer camp, the Institute closes its doors to the public, and staff thoroughly clean every space. The Institute then reopens privately to young cancer patients and their families so that they can enjoy a visit to the Institute in a clean environment with no fear of crowds. These experiences make an impact at a level that is hard to imagine.

The Institute is, indeed, fortunate to have friends such as you. Donors listed on the following pages provide funding that enables those who could most benefit actually receive, at the highest level, what the Institute has to offer. From our programs and various offerings to paying for busses and meals, the Institute will always do whatever it takes to impact the learning and lives of others in the best way possible.

Our entire staff is deeply grateful for your support of the Institute of Science and the important work that we do. Please accept our most heartfelt thanks.

Service and outreach remain a fundamental part of the educational experience that Cranbrook Schools provides, and 2014-15 was no exception. Today's students and faculty are engaging in meaningful partnerships in and outside of our community. Individually and collectively, they are making an important difference, which is in keeping with the sentiments of George Booth himself, who said "The only way to have is to give." Below are just a few examples of how our students continue to keep this longstanding Cranbrook tradition alive.

At the lower school, students in the second grade held their Thanksgiving Food Drive, with first graders pitching in to sort the donations. The second grade Brownie troop conducted a winter clothing drive for Trix Academy in Detroit, while the third grade held their annual Empty Bowls fund raiser and food drive for Gleaners. Brookside's ongoing support for Namtenga has helped improve conditions and increase enrollment at the school Cranbrook helped found.

Cranbrook Kingswood Middle School students and parents have come together to work at Forgotten Harvest. Both boys and girls have volunteered at the warehouse and the Forgotten Harvest Farm. They have also partnered with Kids Kicking Cancer. Cranbrook Kingswood Middle School for Girls has been sponsoring tuition for children in Namtenga to go to middle school through our Walk-For-Water activity for over six years. In grade six, the boys spent a fall day cleaning up Clark Park in Detroit, helping them to connect with the greater community. In grade seven, the boys had two major projects where they support others in the Detroit metro area. In the fall, they participated in the "Adopt a Child Size" project, which saw them using money raised through donations to purchase winter clothing items for needy children. In grade eight, the boys hosted a pancake breakfast that raised money for a local charity.

Not only are there group outreach efforts by Cranbrook Schools clubs, sports teams, or classes, but individual students are inspired to take on outreach projects on their own. They share their experiences in the classroom and with their friends, serving as inspirational peers for other students. Last year, for example, a senior traveled during her vacations to Senegal where she taught English to indigent, handicapped students at the Jean D'Arc School in Dakar. A native of Senegal, she used her knowledge of French and Wolof, the languages spoken at the school, to help the children make connections and understand the meaning behind the words. She even purchased English-language children's books and developed lesson plans to keep the students engaged and learning after she has gone.

In May, local Cranbrook Kingswood alumni hosted the second annual Career Fair which had the dual goals of reconnecting alumni with the Schools and also cultivating professional networking opportunities for our students, offering a perfect example of Cranbrook students' desire to serve others even after they have left Cranbrook.

The generous donors on the following pages, including, for the 12th consecutive year, 100% of the Cranbrook Schools faculty, have enabled these outreach activities to flourish within Cranbrook Schools. To each of the most recent graduates or newest parents and the longest-connected graduates, grandparents, and friends, and to all of the individuals and organizations listed here, and others not listed, thank you on behalf of the students, faculty, and staff of Cranbrook Schools for supporting the Schools in a very meaningful way.

Arlyce M. Siebert
Director of Cranbrook Schools

Horizons-Upward Bound (HUB) could accurately be described as the community outreach program for Cranbrook Educational Community; however, that would only be a part of the story because Cranbrook gains as much from HUB as it gives.

Horizons-Upward Bound provides a comprehensive summer and academic year enrichment program that prepares low-income/first generation college students with life-long skills that will allow students to succeed in secondary education, post-secondary education and beyond.

As we celebrate our 50th year, we commenced our winter phase with more than 150 students, grades nine through twelve, from high schools in Detroit and Pontiac. Students attend the HUB program on the Cranbrook campus twenty-four Saturdays during the academic year. HUB students, who are nominated by their schools, tested, and interviewed before enrolling, also attend a six-week summer residential program at Cranbrook. During the school year and summer phase, students are not only enrolled in an intensive college-preparatory curriculum, but also participate in enrichment activities, and, during the summer phase, participate in an organized athletic program including swimming. Because the primary focus is on developing strong academic skills and preparing students for post-secondary educational experiences, students receive tutoring and college and career guidance. As a result, through four years of high school, our students have access to more than 2,500 hours of structured learning opportunities.

The HUB program is an extraordinary Cranbrook outreach program which represents the very best of what Cranbrook founders, Detroit philanthropists George and Ellen Booth, encouraged of us—the art of giving to others. Please be informed, our Cranbrook Horizons-Upward Bound students exemplify that spirit each summer by managing a bountiful community garden located on campus—off of Faculty Way—filled with an abundance of vegetables and fruit. The produce they grow is shared with The Baldwin Center in Pontiac, Orchards Children's Services foster families, and All Saints Episcopal Church. Students are instrumental in harvesting, packing and delivering the produce.

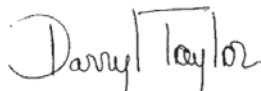

One of the largest programs of its kind in the country, and one of only a handful associated with an independent school rather than a college, HUB has been extremely successful by all measures. A few statistics are highlighted below.

- 97% of HUB students graduate from high school.
- More than 95% of HUB graduates are accepted at post-secondary institutions.
- On average, more than 70% of HUB graduates complete college within six years.
- HUB alumni have gone on to universities and colleges such as Albion, Amherst, Cornell, Harvard, Howard, Johns Hopkins, Kenyon, Michigan State, the University of Michigan, and many others.

HUB graduates include Leslie Love HUB'89, a Michigan State Representative; Curtis Longs HUB'75, a physician; Charles Gordon HUB'04, an information systems coordinator; Iman Taylor HUB'08, a Gates Millennium Scholar and Harvard graduate; Johnae Strong HUB'08, a teacher in Chicago; Brittney Gwynn HUB'06, an accountant; and Lamar Willis HUB'00, a music teacher in the Southfield Public Schools and minister of music at Plymouth United Church of Christ.

I am also a proud HUB graduate, as well as a graduate of Cranbrook Schools, Class of 1970. What I remember most about my HUB experience was the nurturing, caring, and supportive environment that existed at Cranbrook. It was an atmosphere where everyone—our school, parents, teachers, communities, and other students were committed to challenging us to exceed everyone's expectations. We knew we had a wealth of support, but, more importantly, recognized that we had an opportunity to achieve what we thought was impossible.

For me, HUB was transformational. As we begin the next 50 years of this extraordinary program which has encouraged, supported, and educated so many successful people, I want to extend a sincere and heartfelt thanks, from every HUB student and graduate, to those individuals and organizations, listed on the attached pages, who gave so generously to the program during the past year. Some donors provide annual support to the program; some gave to our 50th endowment initiative to fund the program for the future; and some donated for both needs. To everyone who supported Horizons-Upward Bound, thank you for helping us sustain the Booths' idea.

Darryl L. Taylor, D.D.S.

As I embark on my new full-time role as director of the Cranbrook Center for Collections and Research, I am excited to expand the Center's footprint of outreach and service to others that has been such a long-lived hallmark of the activities in the other areas of the campus. In many ways, the Center's mission—to increase awareness of, access to, and preservation of Cranbrook's art, architectural, landscape, design, historical, and archival collections—is all about reaching out to audiences and scholars outside the campus.

Over the last year, the Center's third, its outreach has expanded measurably. Some examples of the Center's outreach are:

Collaborations

The Center provides special access to regional history, art, design, landscape, and architectural entities with connections to Cranbrook. These collaborations—which have taken the form of lectures, Day Away tours, concerts, and even farm-to-table dinners—provide deep and often surprising educational enrichment and open Cranbrook to new audiences from around Michigan. In addition, the Center is fortunate to be the program provider for the Melvyn and Sara Smith House, a Frank Lloyd Wright-designed home in Bloomfield Hills with connections to Cranbrook's architectural legacy. All of the Center's tours and programs are promoted to the general public, as well as to Center patrons and other Community constituents. Center activities often garner interesting print and electronic coverage and reinforce the open and public character of this newest of Cranbrook's programs.

On-Line Digital Resources

Not everyone can visit Bloomfield Hills to experience Cranbrook in person, and in the 21st century with our electronic resources they don't have to—thanks to the free on-line digital resources of the Cranbrook Archives. While only approximately 1% of the photographs in its collection are digitized, the Archives has a dizzyingly broad array of documents, ephemera, oral histories, and architectural records, in addition to photographs, which document over 100 years of Cranbrook history. Among the most interesting items in digital form are the George Booth Sketchbook, the Edward and Ruth Adler Schnee Papers, the Cranbrook Architectural Drawing Collection, and the Cranbrook Hand-Colored Lantern Slide Collection.

As Cranbrook's newest component, the Center is especially grateful to the individuals and organizations listed on the following pages for their gifts during the past year to ensure that its growing programming and resources are available to even broader public audiences. We encourage everyone who enjoys any part of Cranbrook to explore its history by visiting the Archives, walking around Cranbrook House and Gardens, touring Saarinen House or the Smith House, or exploring our digital resources at www.cranbrook.edu/center and clicking on the link to the Cranbrook Archives.

Across Cranbrook Educational Community, staff members undertake regular acts of service to others, and I have taken this opportunity to list a few of these below. Equally important, and what I would like to highlight first, is the service that others give to Cranbrook. The most important in terms of the numbers of hours and the degree of physical labor is the contribution of our House & Gardens Auxiliary, a group of volunteers who donate in the aggregate more than 16,000 hours of work annually in maintaining the lush, picturesque, and weed-free gardens and providing tours to the hundreds of visitors at Cranbrook House. These individuals, many of whom have been volunteering in the Gardens for years, can be seen every day of the week around the grounds of Cranbrook House, planting in the spring, watering and weeding in the summer, and cleaning up the gardens in the fall. They are tireless, friendly, knowledgeable, and invaluable to Cranbrook and to the thousands of visitors who visit the House and Gardens each year.

In addition to the hundreds of volunteers who provide service to each of Cranbrook's programs, many of our employees embrace Cranbrook's strategic theme of service to others in their own actions. For example, this past year, several Cranbrook employees took time to join with one of United Way's partnering agencies, Focus: Hope, in packing pre-made boxes of food on pallets for its senior home-bound delivery program. Volunteers went to Focus: Hope's Central Warehouse for several mornings in March, and assisted in the process of getting food to those less fortunate. This was a terrific experience for those involved because it was a satisfying project to participate in and it also gave the Cranbrook people a chance to get to know one another. Many of the participants and other Cranbrook employees have expressed interest in volunteering for Focus: Hope again in the future. In addition, the Focus: Hope project has inspired some Facilities staff to begin planning for a project with Habitat for Humanity that will use their work skills in helping to build or to rehab a house for low-income residents. Watch for details about that in the future!

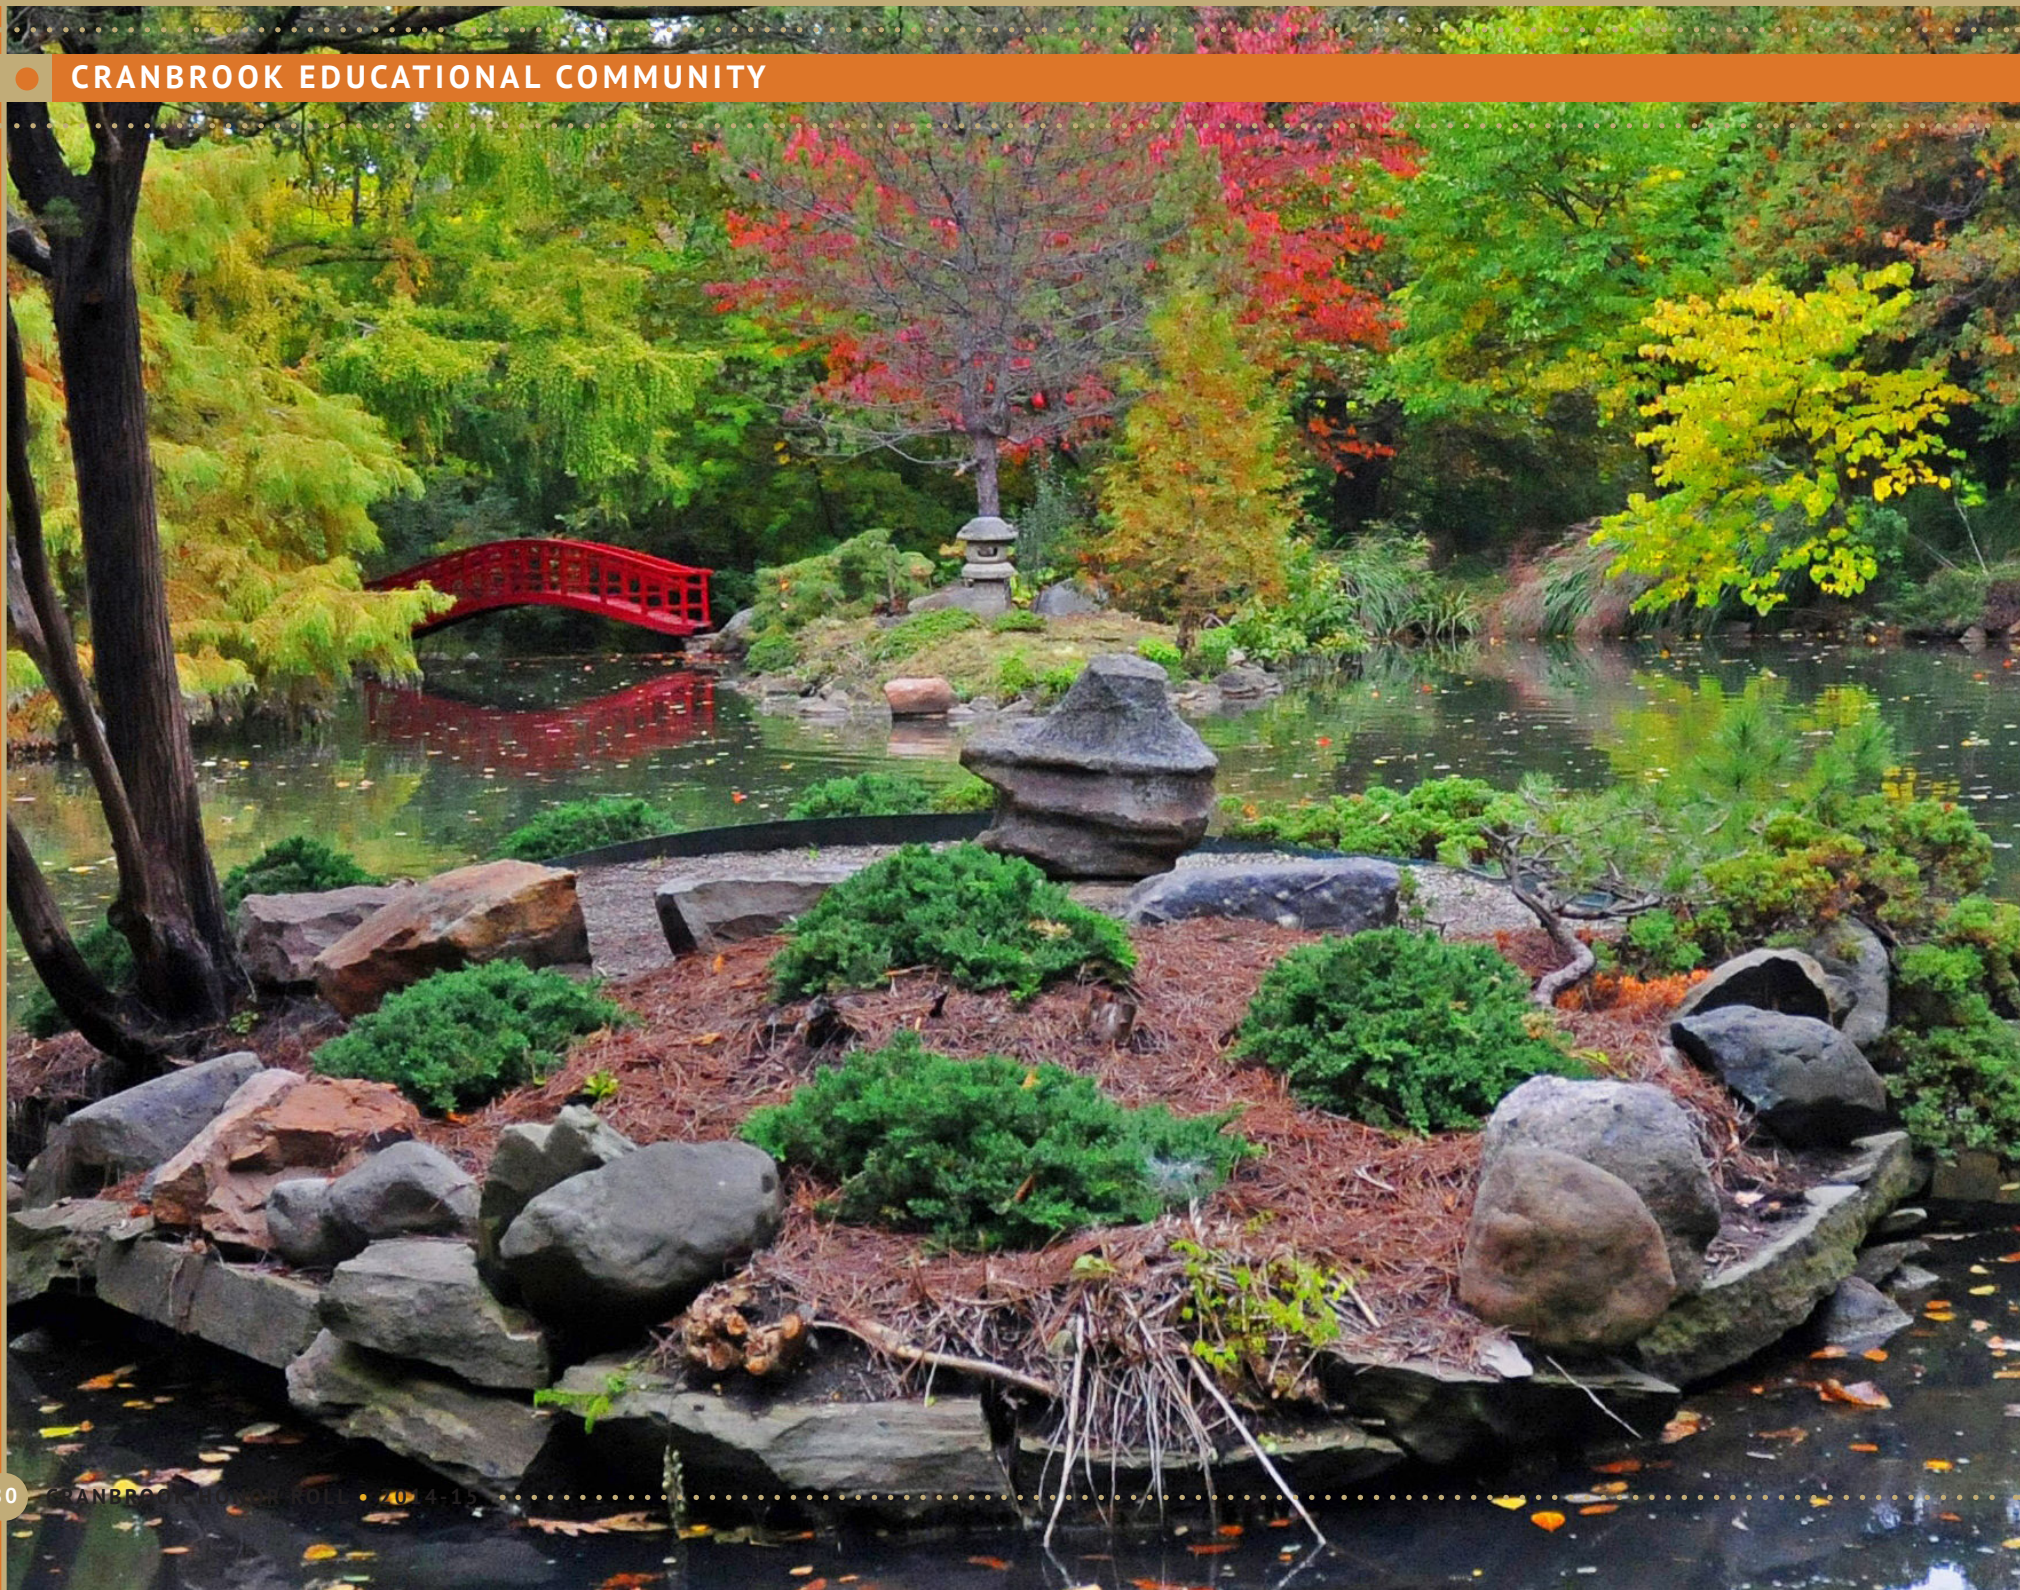

Not only do Cranbrook employees join together to work on service projects, many also volunteer countless hours of their personal time to organizations serving our region. One of those, a senior manager in the Business Services area, has invested her volunteer time with organizations that assist at risk youth and women in skill- and esteem-building. One, Transform 4 Life, is "passionately purposed on educating, equipping, and empowering athletes (boys and girls in all sports), women, and teenage girls (ages 13-17) with the skills, determination, and perseverance to live a sustainable and full life." Another initiative is "The Better You Read – The Better Your Life," a literacy program which partners the Rotary Club of Birmingham with the Pontiac Public Schools.

George Booth would indeed be gratified by the many ways in which Cranbrook employees give back to their communities. He wrote that if someone wants to be truly great, whatever their role in life, they must offer service to others that will make their communities better places to live and work. We are proud of the work Cranbrook's staff undertakes, and encourage this spirit of service to others.

We are also very grateful to the many volunteers who contribute their time in service to Cranbrook. Those individuals and others listed on the following pages who have made financial gifts to projects and programs originating in the Community make Cranbrook stronger through their support. On behalf of the thousands of learners, visitors, employees, and friends of Cranbrook, thank you.
